Though each of us is different, our common reason for being here holds us together in a group spirit. However, we each view being part of a larger group differently — some enjoy a feeling of cooperation with others while many see themselves as doing battle against the majority.

Many times I was affected by peer pressure. It's just a fact of school — nobody wants to be left out of the group."

— Sean Halter

"Peer pressure almost always got people in trouble, so I tried to stay away from it."

"I was my own person. I didn't try to be like my friends. We were all different."

With childlike delight, seniors wait expectantly for Halloween to arrive each autumn. Costumes are discussed in secret whispers for weeks in advance. The privilege of leaving their last class early for judging is only one of the rewards of this day. More important is the fun of being free to express the character you've always wanted to be and using your imagination to get the costume together. This year's winners were: Best Makeup — Richard McKenzie, Best Group — Carrie Barlow, Kara Kraft, Leanne Ferrara, Susan Myers and Jen Westlake. Prettiest — Madrigal Fields. Seniors who caught the photographer's eye on these pages are: 1) Anne Marie Breen, 2) Michelle Moore, 3) Jen Westlake, 4) Angie Studenka, 5) Jenny Molloy, 6) Michelle Ferguson, 7) Shirley Wellman, 8) Joan Selfert, Abby Boldt, Marianne Flannery and Chris Holly, 9) Lisa Drake and 10) Michelle Gephart.

For better or worse, four years of high school leave an imprint on each of us. And each succeeding year of high school can have its own character. Looking back, these seniors observed:

"I was only there for my senior year, but compared to my other two high schools, Turpin had a terrific bunch of kids who made me feel more accepted than any others."

— Dana Dalton

"I became increasingly cynical with each passing year."

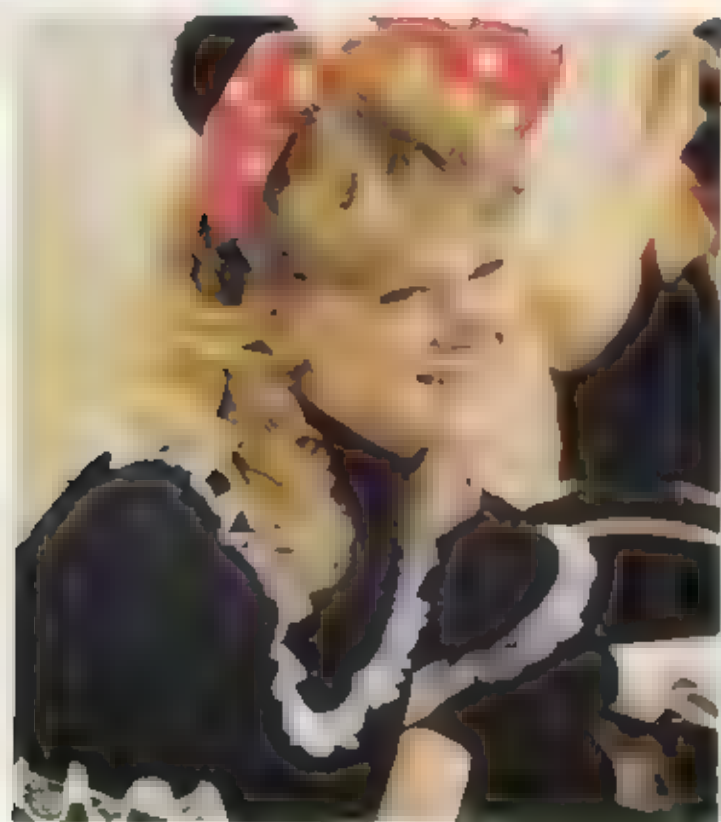

— Fred Zacharias

"Every year I've gotten crazier."

— Nick Zavison

"My overall outlook on life became more serious as I grew up mentally and physically."

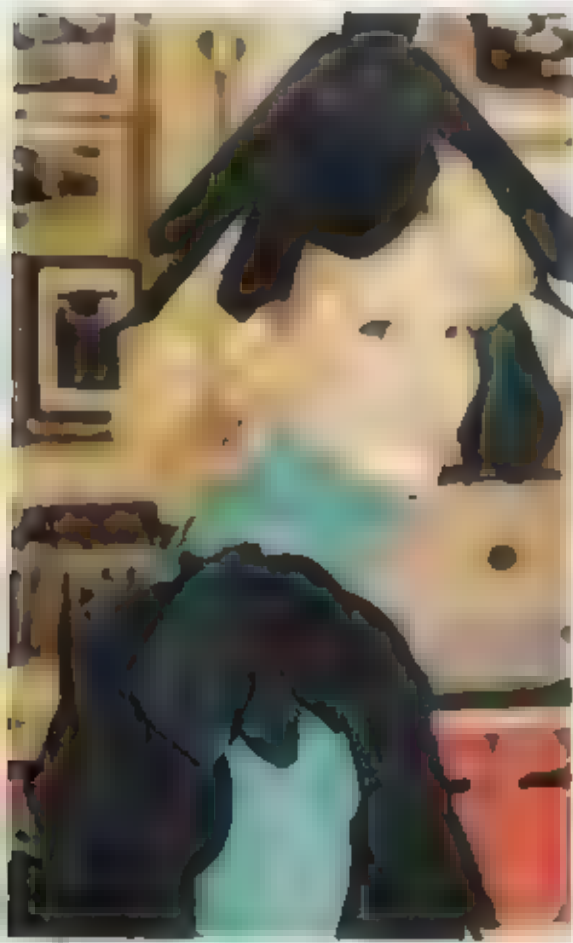

— Eric Roberds

Each year brought more responsibility. Also, I lost and made new friends each year.

— Jim Ackley

"I only came here my junior year but the two were very different. At first, I tried hard to let everyone know I was miserable. That scared them away. My senior year, I tried to show people I wanted to be friends and am not a complete untouchable."

— Casey Stowell

"Freshman year was a transition from junior school into high school. Sophomore year established a foundation. Junior year was a struggle between the need to be responsible and the urge to rebel. In my senior year I learned to enjoy the present and both fear and anticipate the future."

— Dave Garrett

Turpin's soccer teams brought Cincinnati a second set of twin towers last week — his and hers state championship trophies.

In the span of six days, the boys and girls swept through the state finals with four thrilling one-goal victories, and in the process set the whole state of Ohio on its ear. No school ever in the history of Ohio has won boys and girls state championships in the same year.

At the end of Monday's boys final 3-2 win over Stow Walsh Jesuit, 200 Turpin students joined their team in a victory lap around the Dublin High School stadium that those who witnessed it will never forget.

They had come by car, van, bus — even helicopter for one local TV station — to watch the Spartans make history.

At the end of the night, they didn't tear the goal-posts down, but the net into which Brandy Atkins put the game-winning goal did become a permanent part of Turpin Soccer lore

Momentum and emotion built steadily throughout the tournament for Turpin, as each team was in turn inspired and pushed by the success of the other. Indeed, after the girls came from behind to oust Northmont on Wednesday night, it seemed that there was such an irresistible force in motion that there was no way anyone could stop the Spartans

The Turpin express rolled through Trotwood Saturday, dashing the hopes of Beaver Creek and Centerville, and on into Dublin Monday night for its final date with destiny

Food The Focus Of 1986 Homecoming Festivities

A festive 1986 Homecoming began with the Turpin Spartans bumping heads in the football game against the Milford Eagles. The stands were filled with screaming Spartan fans letting loose their school spirit and anticipating the crowning of this year's queen along with the battle of the pomp.

Impatient court members circled the field in fancy convertibles and savored their time in the spotlight. Heather Houston and Carrie Aspinall made their debut as representatives of the Freshman class. The Sophomores presented dazzling Tina Brock and Amy Wallin while Juniors voted to see Jenny Adams and DeAnn Thomas make their mark. Anxious Senior court members could hardly wait to discover who Julie Fischer, 1985 queen, would crown. Candidates were Mary Ann Flannery, Amy Grissom, Joan Seifert and Tam Doan. Julie Fischer caused Tami Doan to fill a bucket of happy tears as she carried on the honor Julie and others before her had possessed. But that wasn't the end of the half time festivities.

Each class float was designed to tantalize the judges' taste buds with their use of the theme of restaurants. Seniors won with the slogan of "Turpin is Numero Uno's" based on Uno's restaurant. The Juniors took second place with "Dice 'em up" and their intentions of sauteing the Eagles just the way the Samari would. Unfortunately, the game ended with a score of 15-7 and our Spartans had only succeeded in simmering the Eagles.

Dinner plans for those not attending the game were worth mentioning this year in keeping with the restaurant theme. Wendy Sedgwick had couples over to feast on a huge Chinese meal. Jenny Neff had others arrive at her home for Domino's Pizza with pepperoni and extra cheese because their group was running a bit behind schedule. Those who were on the ball bounced into restaurants such as Jay's Seafood, where Kelly Blackwell with George Parsenios and Linda Streb with Brandy Cowart dined for the night. Elegant items such as scallops and shrimp were ordered from expensive menus. But regardless of the food, the enjoyment of each other's company was the real reason for dining out.

After the game and dinner, students flocked to the cafeteria where the sound of "Rage" filled the air. With all the right moves, Kelli Davis and Chris Riedel were the first to jump into action and jam to the song "Relax." Following in their footsteps came Debi Gonzales and graduate Jeff Davis along with Stephanie Cone and graduate Mike Martella. After those six set the wheels in motion, the rest piled onto the dance floor.

The fun had to come to an end, so at one o'clock in the morning, everyone left with tired feet but with another great Turpin celebration etched in their memories.

Record Turnout For Christmas Formal — Holiday Spirit Prevails

1) Sophomores Kristy Sherwin, Andy Newman, Danielle Ray, Chris Hadley, Andrea Meney, and Curt Mangrich concentrate their efforts toward acting polite and more sophisticated. 2) Jeffery Rogers and Jake Measher move closer and get ready for Christmas romance. 3) Settling into a comfortable snuggle are Becky Rowland and Rob Lockwood. 4) Mike Rowland and Louis Schwartz agree that Fast Forward is creating the perfect dancing atmosphere.

5) Unique dance steps are demonstrated by Mary Krug and James Lopez. 6) Jerry Meister responds to a friend's question as her date finds a safe place to rest his hand. 7) Class friends Lisa Drake, Gwen Estelle, Mike Stevens, Michele Ferguson, and Randy Pitt gather together to share Christmas warmth and cheer. 8) Cassandra McCowan and Lisa Shapiro help their dates enjoy a formal dance. Turpin style.

The cold, clear night of December 6 sent students hurrying from their cars into the cafeteria for the much anticipated 1986 Christmas Formal. With the prospect of a long vacation coming up soon and the romance that Christmas always brings, enthusiasm for the dance was high this year — approximately 155 couples attended.

The breeze from the opening doorways gently moved the intricately cut paper snowflakes hanging from the ceiling and students saw fat little snowmen to welcome them on each table. Red and green twisted crepe paper surrounded the dancers as music by Fast Forward brought them to their feet. At one point in the evening, Joan Seifert was handed a guitar pick by one of the band members and was asked to help provide an accompaniment while Dawn Anderson, Susan Myers, Kate Manzier, Heather Blake and Kelli Cummins provided a vocal for Bruce Springsteen's song, Glory Days.

Besides Prom, this dance is the only other that has girls talking excitedly about their dresses for weeks in advance. Red, green and white; satin, velvet and lace are always popular choices for holiday apparel. Although most girls continue to buy their dresses at stores like Suzi's Casuals, McAlpins and Ayres, Shelly Manteuffel's mother made her spectacular gown of black silk and silver lame this year. Its uniqueness caused quite a few envious glances to be cast her and date Rob Martella's way. Everyone was especially well dressed for this festive dance and time of year.

As the evening drew to a close at 1:00 students carried home the first warm glow of Christmas spirit and memories to enjoy again in the weeks and months to come.

Traditional Turnaround — Girls Ask Guys to Sadie Hawkins Dance

1) With typical energy and enthusiasm, Jettie Rogers dances to the beat. 2) Chad Knight, Tracy Daugherty, George Parnenios, Sean Smith and Penny Hestand pose for their professor's Sadie Hawkins portrait. 3) Chris Seaton puts on his 'Marlboro Man' expression to impress Tricia Taylor and Annie Linnqvist. 4) Chris Newton poses for his Sadie's King portrait with crown and bouquet. 5) Gwen Berger, Bara Hill and Patty Buschle smile for their Jimmy Buffet fan club picture. 6) Laura Ottaviani and Bart Rowland plop down to catch their breath for a few minutes. 7) Loree Bennett and Kathy Roseberry kick up their heels and stomp to the beat.

"Should I ask him or not?" was the question repeated over and over by girl students as they tried to work up enough nerve to ask their favorite guys to the Sadie Hawkins Dance. It was a good way to learn a little sympathy for what the boys go through at more traditional dances

When the big night arrived, carloads of hungry students poured into their favorite restaurants. Those craving pizza went to Zinos. The Montgomery Inn served those wanting a taste of those famous barbecued ribs. Other groups flocked into Fridays or The Rookwood Pottery in Mt. Adams

Then, as 9:00 quickly arrived on March 19, Turpin's 1987 Sadie Hawkins dance got rolling. Things got a little crazy when the band, Hollywood, played hit songs by Phil Collins, Huey Lewis and the News and Eddie Money

The band's break allowed students to rest as well as visit with friends in the Bob Evans style decorations of red checked tablecloths and straw brooms. Plaid shirts in all colors and sizes with straw hats and ripped jeans to go with them paraded through the night that left students exhausted from a most memorable dance

Unlike last year when the streets covered with ice and snow, February 14, 1987 turned out to be a warm and extremely windy night. An exciting dance with a great band was the perfect way to spend the most romantic night of the year — Valentines Day

Couples poured into the balloon and heart filled cafeteria and a good percentage of students also showed up stag, in the hope of meeting someone special that night. The band, Fast Forward, played everyone's favorite hits including Twist and Shout, which really made the dance floor start to move! Plenty of pop kept everyone's energy flowing and slow songs like In the Air Tonight gave a needed chance to cool off

About 11 00, from the Band Sweetheart Court of Kelly Reed, Pam McDonald, Mary Beth Klug and Suzanne Bruestle, the surprised Pam McDonald, escorted by Geoff Coldiron was crowned Band Sweetheat

By 12:30 when the lights came on, balloons started to walk out with the crowd as souvenirs of Valentines 1987. Layout by Paula Chisholm/Copy by Paula Chisholm and Suzi Curless

Prom 1987 saw most couples enjoying elegant and expensive restaurants such as The Waterfront, The Conservatory, Top of the Crown and The Sovereign. Typical weekend dinners of pizza and hamburgers gave way to filet mignon, lobster and steak.

All eyes were on Turpin students as they arrived at the luxurious Netherland Plaza Hotel and climbed the curving staircase to the beautiful Hall of Mirrors. Excitement sparkled in the air and the reflective surfaces in the ballroom multiplied the brightly colored dresses. Strapless styles seemed popular this year and pink was the favorite color choice of most girls. Guys echoed the theme with pink bow ties and cummerbunds.

While waiting in line for pictures outside the ballroom, a tempting table of appetizers provided snacks if anyone was still hungry after their dinners. Two punch fountains ran all evening on either side of the room to add a special touch to the lobby area. After pictures were completed, the gentlemen led their ladies to the dance floor.

As the clock struck midnight, the Prom court took their places at the front of the dance floor. Troy Menchhofer and Suzy Sauers were crowned as king and queen for 1987. They led the crowd in a dance to the theme song This Could be the Night. Everyone danced happily until morning.

After the dance this year, many couples continued the fun by taking a boatride down the Ohio River on The Showboat Jubilee. The first floor featured Monte Carlo games and attracted many couples. Other preferred a quieter more romantic conclusion to the evening and spent it on the top deck listening to a D.J. spin records. Towards the early morning hours, prizes were auctioned off to the gamblers with the most chips. These included submarine sandwiches, radios, dinners and tapes.

Everything came to an end as the boat docked at 4:30 A.M. Tired prom goers went to their ways with perfect memories to sleep on.

Familiar Play Proves Popular With Audience

Attentive quiet gave way to enthusiastic applause as the Titus Auditorium curtain slipped closed, ending one of the most successful plays in THS drama club history. The Paper Chase

"We wanted to do a play that everyone had heard of," explained Rusty Clause, who has been a member of the drama club for four years. "because one of the most common excuses people have given for not coming is that they've never heard of it before."

The play used the flashbacks of Hart and Ford, two aspiring Harvard law students who had barricaded themselves in a hotel room to study for exams. During this time, they waged a chaotic battle against the manager, Mrs. Wentworth, for the continued use of the room. Layout/Copy by Stephanie Delaney

Three One-Act Plays Provide An Entertaining Evening

The Drama Club presented three one-act plays on the evening of February 7 and 8. The plays offered a wide range of subject matter and style and the audience enjoyed an evening of lively entertainment.

To Bobolink, For Her Spirit by William Inge, showed six New Yorkers who spend their time standing outside stage and restaurant doors seeking autographs of the famous. The cast included Anne Vance, Tracy Daugherty, Kelli Cobb, Kate Davis, Brian Hawley, Chris Dent and John Lowrance.

Thornton Wilder's The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden was an affectionate portrait of a mother whose family is making a short journey in a 1920's automobile to visit an unhappy daughter in Camden, New Jersey. Gwen Elmore played the mother; others in the cast were Cheryl Law, Chris Cook, Scott Alexander, Richard McKenzie and Greg Messarian.

The third and longest play was adapted from a 1950's television presentation of Horton Foote's titled A Young Lady of Property. It was the story of a teenage girl's insecurity after her mother has died and her father has decided to remarry. The "young lady" was played by Laura Waldner; she was supported by Karen Justin, Kelly Reed, Sherri Vollbracht, Monica Voegelé, Linda Streb, Rusty Clause, David Moore, and Chris Hutchison.

6) Lester Thompson (Rusty Clause) is confronted by Wilma's aunt over his insensitivity towards Wilma's feelings. 7) Wilma (Laura Waldner) inquires anxiously of Miss Gert (Kelly Reed) and Monica (Monica Voegelé) if her father from the scout has arrived. 8) Miss Gert (Kelly Reed) is distressed over Wilma's problems with her father. 9) Monica (Sherri Vollbracht) listens sympathetically to Wilma's concerns.

Medieval Mayhem & Modern Comedy Mix Harmoniously In Pippin

Mixing modern comedy with medieval history, the THS/AHS musical provided the audience with light hearted humor mixed with romance.

The play was set in the time of the Emperor Charlemagne, ruler of the Holy Roman Empire and centered around the trials of his son, Pippin, who comes home from his schooling searching for something meaningful to do with his life.

Pippin convinces his father that he should be allowed to go into battle and follows him there only to discover that war is nowhere near as glorious as he had thought. He then speaks to his frisky grandmother, Bertha, who advises him to get out, around and have some fun. After several relationships with women, Pippin finds that aspect of life shallow and empty too.

Pippin then decides that his father's reign is tyrannical and starts a revolution to overthrow him. However, after taking over, he discovers that his methods of ruling are no better and decides to return the throne to his father.

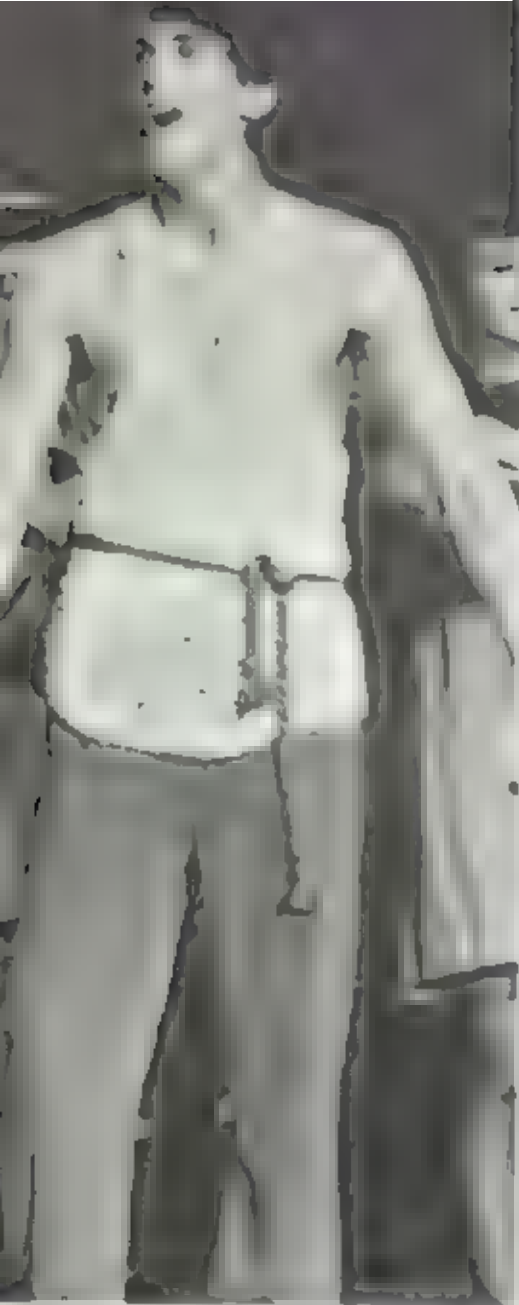

Finally, Pippin travels to the country and meets the beautiful widow, Catherine and her son Theo. After staying with them awhile, Pippin realizes that menial labor is not his style either and decides to leave them.

The Lead Player, who controls the play offers Pippin a grande finale which would lead to his death but give him the glory and excitement he craves. Pippin is not ready for this and realizes toward the end of the play that a simple, quiet life with Catherine would not be so bad after all.

The musical ran from April 30 through May 2. Because many people were unfamiliar with the story in the musical, ticket sales were slow at first. However, the production ended up playing to nearly full houses each night.

Band And Orchestra Give Us Their Best

The many students involved in our instrumental music program begin preparations for the school year in early August. A week of preband camp everyday from nine in the morning until three in the afternoon was followed by another week of marching maneuvers at Wright State University. This left the Marching Band well prepared when school began the third week of August. Two contests were part of this year's season. The first, at Roger Bacon, had to be postponed due to bad weather. After rescheduling for the following week, band members voted to go and compete against six other bands. Hard work paid off since the judges gave our band a second place rating. The second competition against Greenhills saw stiffer competition against 20 other schools but once again, our instrumentalists scored high in all categories.

The Orchestra is losing quite a large number of seniors this year. Asked to look back over their time spent in the instrumental music program, these soon to be graduates had the following comments: Allison Cox, who has played violin since fourth grade said "Orchestra has given me the opportunity to meet and keep some very close friends. French horn player, Kelly Reed said "Orchestra gives you a break from regular school classes." Senior Sherri Vollbracht, elected concert mistress to head the Orchestra this year remembers "I wanted to play a stringed instrument so when Mr. West said I could only play violin in fourth grade, that's what I played!" Sherri will be playing for graduation this year. Copy by Randy Pitt and Jenny Wanke

Choruses Combine To Make A Hit

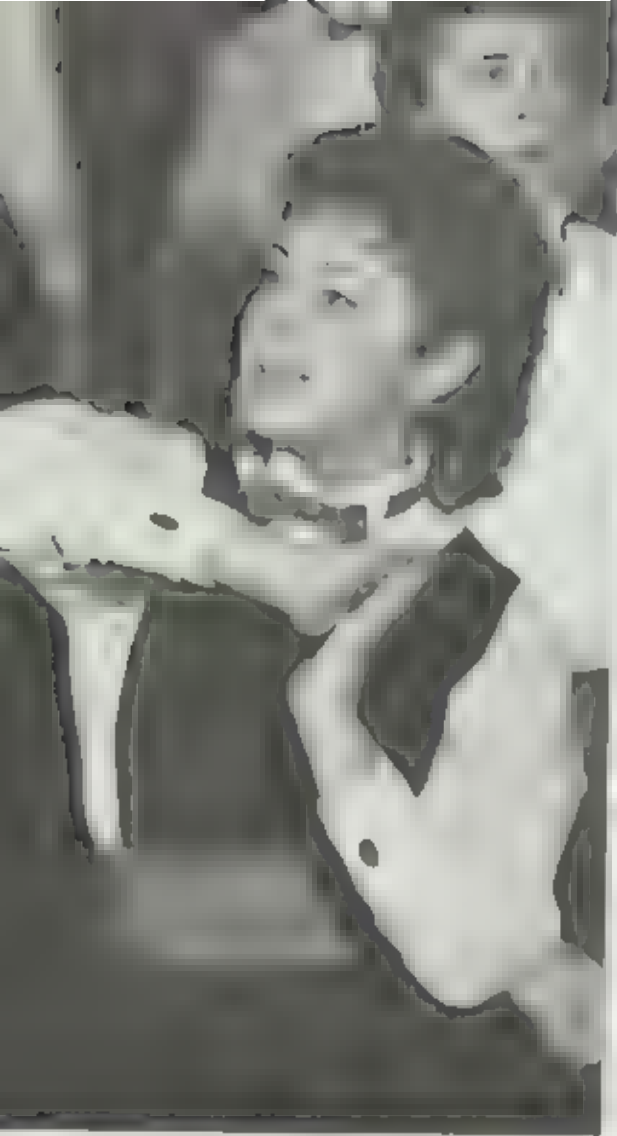

A preference for popular music led Mr. Chester Imhausen to compose the May Concert almost entirely out of today's hits. The choruses enjoyed the change as well. However, when questioned, some members of the choral groups still preferred the challenge of the type of classical music featured at the March concert or the showtunes presented at the Valentine's concert in February.

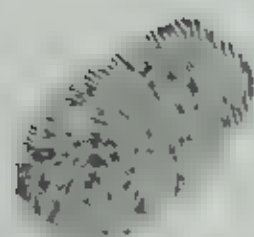

The Mens', Womens' and Mixed Chorus uses together with the Show Choir began the fall season with a concert in September. This was followed by the seasonal Christmas Assembly here at school and a special appearance at the Westin Hotel again this year for the combined choruses.

The early spring brought the Valentine's Day Concert as well as a concert for the children of Maddux Elementary School. The year was concluded with the March and May Concerts and the Turpin-Aanderson Exchange Concert in which the students performed for the students of Anderson High School. Layout/Copy by Stephanie Delaney

How Do You Cram For Exams?

When questioned about their study habits around exam time, several ninth graders gave these observations about their first time with the ordeal in January, 1987.

"I let upperclassmen psych me out about how hard exams would be but I passed them anyway. I was so busy organizing my notes, I didn't really study them." Jenny Emerson

"I ate constantly with as many trips to McDonalds and Zantigos as I could get in. I ate tons of candy bars too because I was so nervous. I expected the worst but they ended up pretty easy." Jason Hipskind

Going It Alone

Getting away from the house whenever you want to and not having to depend on friends and parents for a ride were the reasons most often given by sophomores for why they loved being able to drive.

When you've just completed Driver's Education, getting a speeding ticket doesn't seem like anything that will really ever happen and one sophomore even cited 80 MPH as the ideal speed for highway driving! Possible excuses for winning the sympathy of a police officer ranged from a realistic telling them you're a beginner and made a mistake to varied emergencies involving death and dying. Gaining confidence in our immediate area by driving to school, parties and shopping was on the minds of most beginners. However, longer trips to Tri-County, New York and Florida are already being planned. Convenience, independence and a feeling of freedom are the rewards of being able to drive.

What's Your Excuse?

With each new school year, students try to think of newer and more original excuses for not having their work done. While freshmen still believe teachers will fall for "My dog ate it," sophomores realize it's not so easy anymore. High school teachers have probably heard it all at one time or another. So how do you get away with it when you don't have your homework or are late to class? Easy! Think of an original way to blame your locker. It can't defend itself. John Sebastian shares this version as an example: "Someone found my locker combination and scattered my books all over the floor. I couldn't just leave them there!" Or, you might try "I left it in my locker and it's way up on the math level. You don't want me to go all the way up there and get it now, do you?" Of course it's just as easy to say it wouldn't open. The main thing is to think original!

Career Choices Made Early At Live Oaks JVS

"This way I'm one up on everyone else," explained Andy Knollman who majors in building maintenance at Live Oaks. He continued, "I have two years experience before I even graduate." Which brings up the point — where do you graduate? the answer: from Turpin High School right along with the rest of your class.

At Live Oaks, your eight hour school day is divided in half with academics in the mornings and direct experience with your chosen vocation in the afternoons. A two week probation period allows those who may not be sure vocational training is for them to give it a try. If they don't like it, they can return to Turpin.

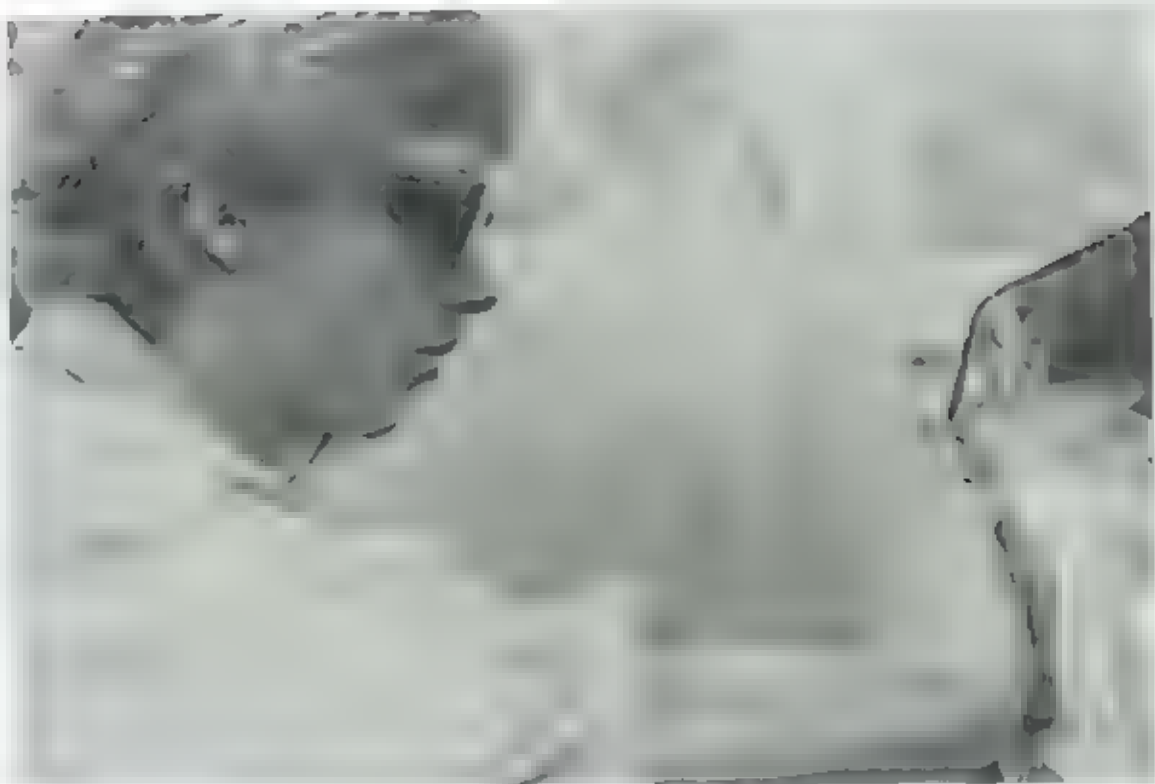

Classes are fairly small, usually about 20 students and one nice aspect is that you make new friends from other schools which feed into the Live Oaks campus.

The success rate is very high. "Jobs are usually pretty good because employers like to see experience on your application," says Chris Ray. "If there are two people, you and one other, you'll get the job!" exclaims Debbie Richter.

Other students involved in Live Oaks vocational training are Bryan Ray, Paul Kempf, Nancy Robinson, Kim Young, Steve Vickers, James Caplinger, Tommy Johnson, Mark Simmons and Mark Roberts. Good luck to each of you in your chosen fields!

If You Knew Charlie —

"He always took the time to talk to you," said Glen Meredith, speaking of retired principal Charles Selzer. "He really cared!" Dawn Householder remarked, "I liked the way he got involved with kids and school activities."

Charles Selzer served as Assistant Principal ever since Turpin opened as a new high school ten years ago. He said, "The excitement never stopped and there was always a variety of work to do." A retired lifestyle is suiting him well. He now makes his own hours working as a salesman for a trophy and awards company owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rob Busch. He calls on schools throughout the area and keeps in touch with us in that way. In his spare time, he likes to read just about anything and also sings for his church choir. Many of us were surprised and impressed to hear Mr. Selzer sing for the first time at his retirement dinner last November. His singing voice is of professional caliber.

The most memorable events of his ten years at Turpin were the honors banquets he supervised each spring. He loved setting up the decorations and arranging the dinners but most of all, he loved presenting awards to all the excellent students who had made their mark on the school in those ten years.

Good memories linger in the minds of many students as well. Casey Stowell reminisced, "One time when I needed to talk to a friend, he let us use his office when no one was there and even gave us passes excusing us from the class we missed. He was really a great principal."

We all miss you Mr. Selzer, and we hope you'll enjoy a great retirement.

Throughout the past four years, the senior class has learned from the educational system and their own experiences. In this column, seniors give some of the advice that they have obtained to underclassmen

"Don't close yourself off from people you think you'd never be friends with. The best thing I've learned as a senior is that you should get to know the people you thought you knew all along." Dawn Householder

Coming To A College Conclusion

Decisions, decisions . . . Who likes making them? Very few. If any of us enjoy making difficult decisions. However, in the senior year of high school, everybody is faced with the perplexing problem of choosing a college. There are thousands of colleges and universities from which to choose. Concluding which institution is right for each individual can become a long and tedious process.

To help eliminate some of the colleges, seniors create a list of criteria. Here are some of the requirements that seniors look for:

"The ratio between men and women is important. Forty women to one man should be sufficient." Ken Kirk

"It would be great to find a school with a strong girls' soccer program, good business school and far away from home." Amy Whiteside

Pastimes Used To Pass Time During A Lecture

Have you ever found yourself listening to a boring lecture? The teachers voice gabbers on and on and on ... Yet nothing he is saying seems to be penetrating into your brain. During such boring lectures, the instructors voice becomes a background noise as students fade away and find interesting ways of entertaining themselves. Here are just a few of the diversions students use to pass time.

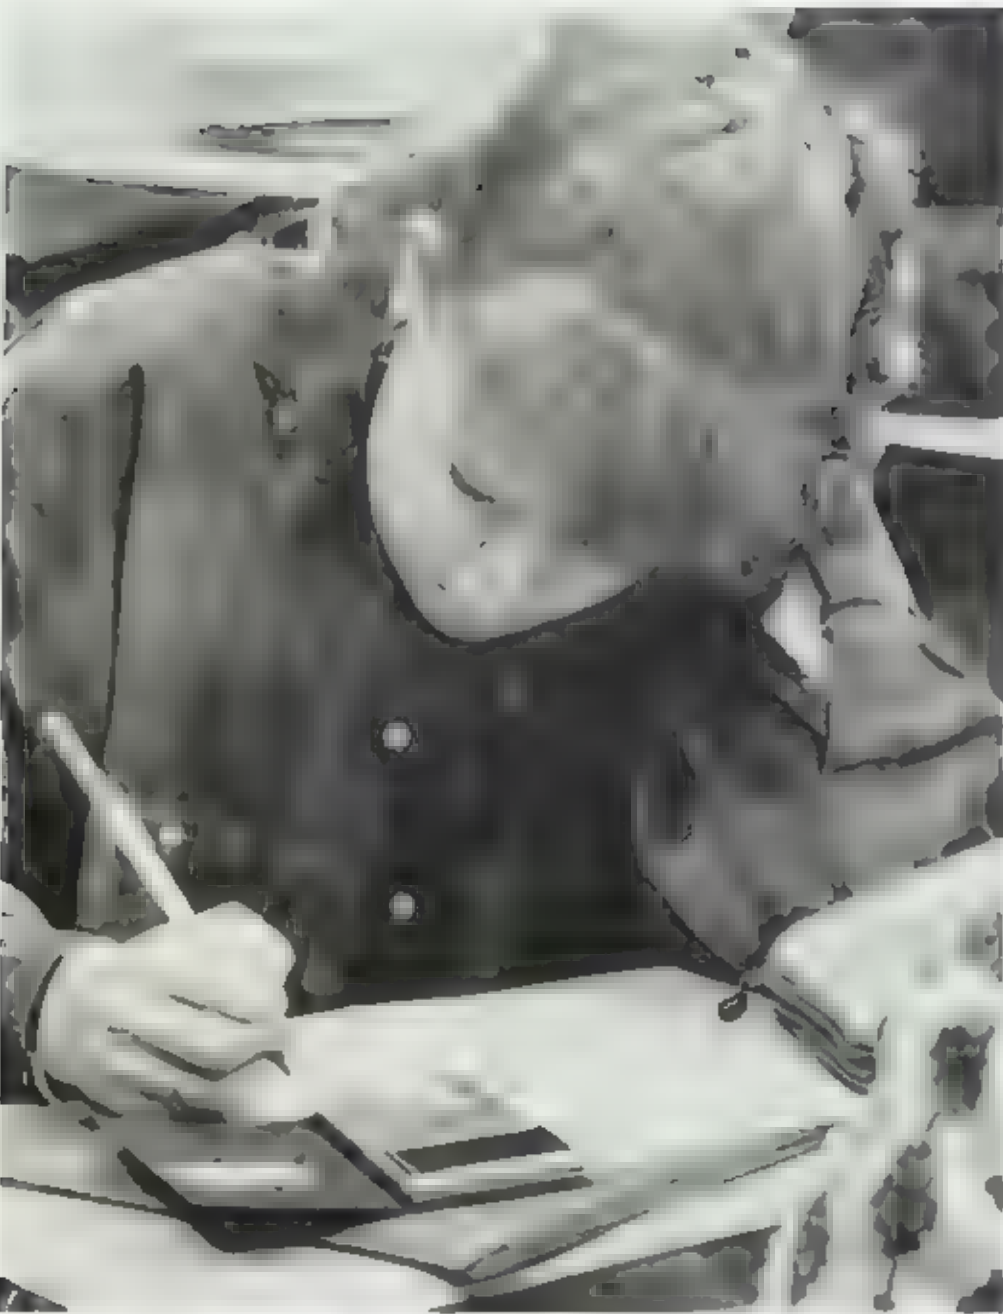

"During a boring lecture I drift off and daydream or write notes to friends about the latest gossip."

Susan Myers "Zzzzzzzzzzzz"

Homework Hassels

"Homework, homework ... give me a break!!!!" There have been times when we have all felt like this. For some legitimate (or sometimes not so legitimate) reason, the homework assignment was not completed. When the teacher asks "Where's your homework," you scramble to find a good excuse. However, the teacher has heard of them all. Well, here are creative excuses not heard of too often.

"I made it into a paper airplane and someone hijacked it." Brad Campbell

"My pen ran out of ink. My car ran out of gas. Now I ask you, how could I possibly do it." Vic Prince

"... But it flew out my car window!" Carrie Barlow

Skipping Solutions

Have you ever gotten the sudden, impulsive urge to skip a class? Sometimes this occurs because of the nice weather or a need for freedom. Anyway, you temporarily forget the punishments which will follow — Saturday school or after-school detentions. Greg Messerian justifies the urge to skip when he claims, "Life moves pretty fast. If you don't take time to stop and look around, you might miss it!" Whereas

Nick Zavison states, "Anything is a good excuse." Here are two elaborations on some common excuses: My mom was out of town. She usually wakes me up. Since my alarm didn't go off, I decided to make it easy on everybody by not coming in late. I just stayed at home." Craig Patmann

"I was hungry and couldn't wait for lunch. So, I went out to eat." Chris Hurr

Embarrassing Events

At some point in time during the past four years, each of us has had something embarrassing happen. Well, most of us — Dave Garrett who claims, "I have never been embarrassed in my life." Here are a few statements from seniors that were willing to share their incidents.

"I don't know about myself . . . but once Phil Belmont jumped off a weight bench, while trying to do an Eddy Van Hallen. He hit his head on the ceiling and got a concussion." Peter Gwynne

"I remember once when I was a freshman, I was walking to the gym. I slipped and fell because it was icy. A bunch of senior guys that I knew wouldn't stop laughing. I guess you had to be there." Kris Pals

Spring Break '87

Senior Spring Break is a time when many people pack their bags and head South. This year there were some variations. The people who stayed in Cincinnati got a real surprise; it snowed fourteen inches! Some other seniors headed further north. Here are some comments from seniors about their vacations:

"I went to Fairhaven, Massachusetts. They had nicer weather up there. However, I spent most of my time unpacking things in our new house." Dawn Householder

"Despite the rumors, the Clearwater girls had more fun than could be expected. Because of the record low temperatures, we learned you don't have to have sun to have fun. Long live Clearwater '87." Marianne Flannery

Freshmen Fears

Right now, as seniors, we are superior to the underclassmen. However, next year we will be at the bottom. We will be "low-life" freshmen. We will no longer be terrorizing the others; we will be the ones being harassed. Here are the comments some seniors about becoming freshmen again:

"Being a freshman has its disadvantages. However, I will be nice to meet older guys again." Kira Aford
"It's time to pay for all the troubles we've given to Turpin's freshmen." Chris Stanton

"It will be a nice change to have so much freedom and be on my own. But I am not looking forward to feeling insecure like a freshman again." Joan Seifert

Spring Brings Carnations And Computer Data-Match

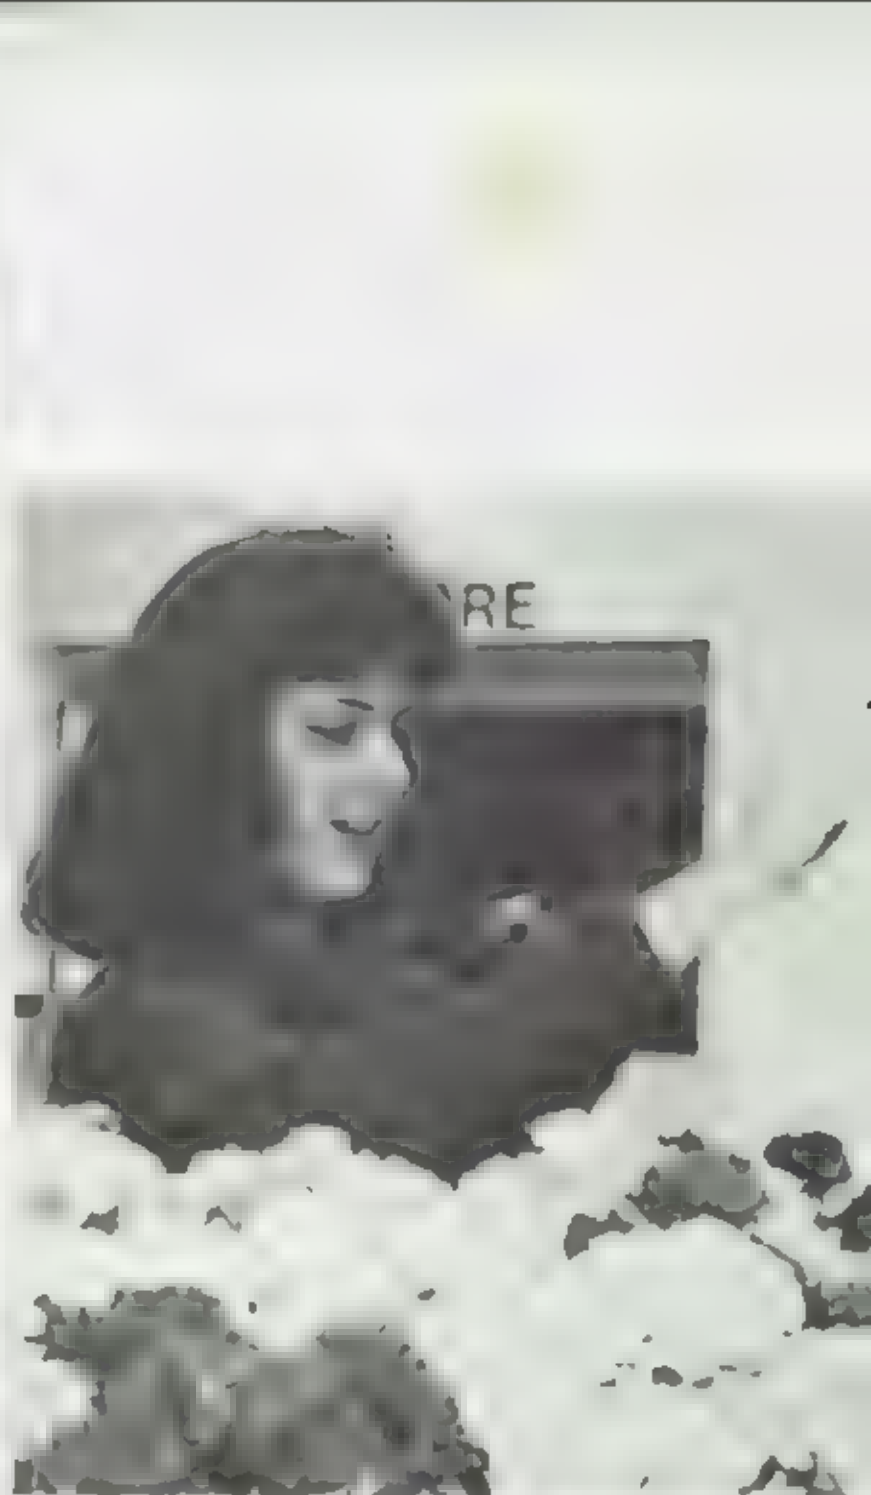

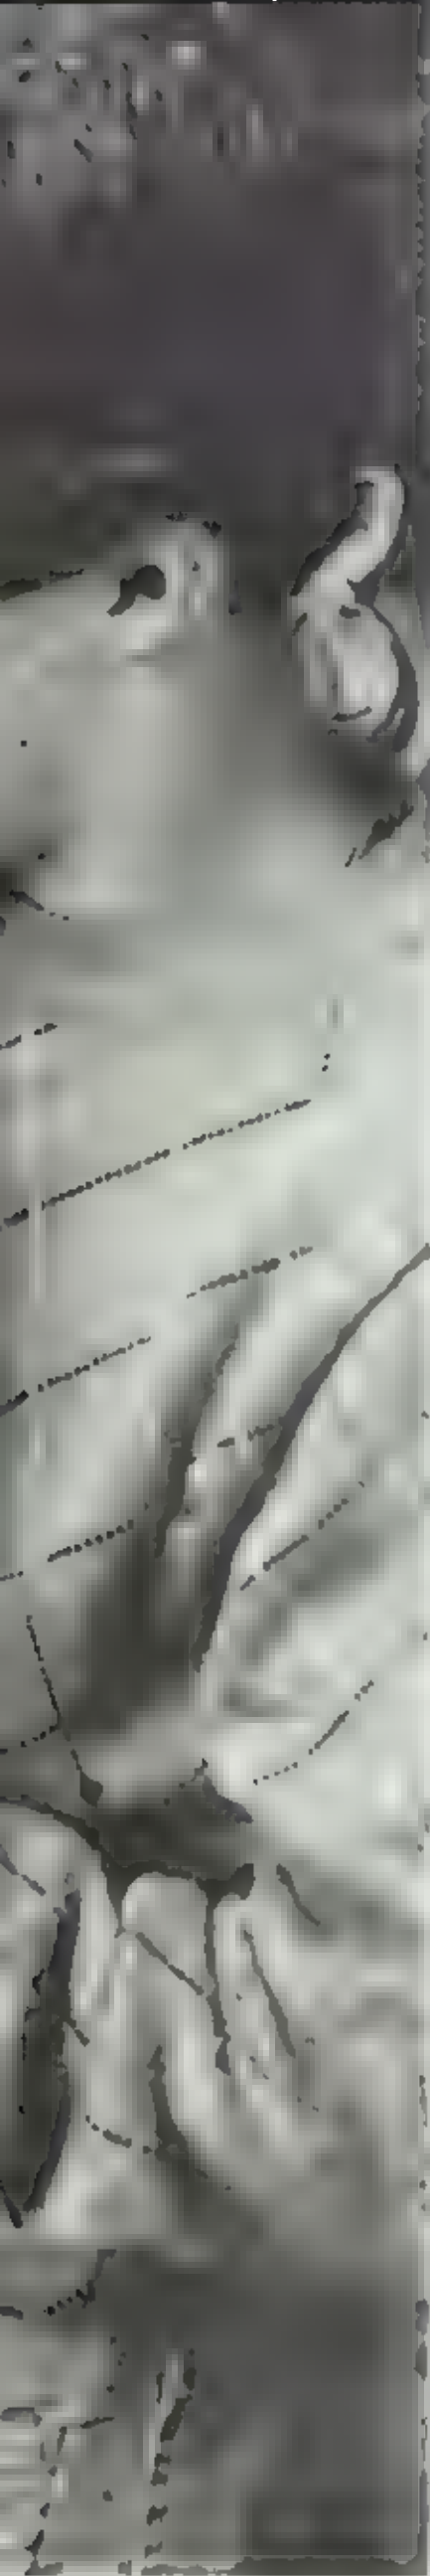

Spring brought colorful carnations back to Turpin and the chance to show off new spring clothes as well. This annual fund raiser is always eagerly looked forward to by the student body as a chance to show special friends we care. The juniors raised over $200 this year and therefore the day was a success since this money is traditionally used for putting on the Prom.

Spring 1987 also brought a new fund raiser in the form of a computerized Data-Match compatibility survey. After all students filled out a questionnaire which listed their preferences and age group, the results were matched by computer and each student was able to buy a list of their ten most compatible peers for $1.00. Curiosity got the better of most students who came up with a dollar for the fund but most students continued to choose their date partners in traditional ways. The Data-Match funds were used to finance the "Float the Boat" campaign, a parent sponsored after prom activity that was new this year. Promgoers spent the late night and early morning hours floating down the Ohion to Old Coney Island and back.

Four fleeting years passed almost as a whisper,
In the empty sky; As a pleasant dream,
That is dreamt each night and never finished,
Carried by tomorrow — the endless stream,

Upon which we sailed our ships of innocence,
Unaware of the rapids that we neared
Deceived by glasses of naivete,
Which hid from our vision things to be feared

Now we're swallowed by the spiraling pools,
That turn tomorrow into yesterday
And we knock on the doors of the future
As the past drifts slowly away

Each of us sobered from the youth we shared,
As personal dreams start to unravel,
Which separate us by different pathes
As we find new partners with whom to travel

But when we look back in twenty-five years,
Memories will echo as joy in our ears
As we laugh with old friends and reminisce,
Over all of the yesterdays we miss

Cross Country Burns A Trail To The Top

"NO WAY!" Most students would respond if asked to run cross country. Why would someone want to torture themselves in all kinds of weather like that? But the first painful weeks of pounding the pavement after a lazy summer soon grew more bearable and the hard work slowly turned into fun for the '86 teams.

The socializing that took place before meets was a large factor in bringing a winning spirit to the runners. "Like the big frisbee football game that turned into a massive mud fight," explained Suzi Curless. "It was great! We realized after it was over that we couldn't get into our cars without cleaning up first so we took a co-ed shower — with our clothes on, of course!" Other times to remember were less rambunctious — spaghetti dinners or meeting for breakfast at Perkins before big award meets. Each time, the team tried to bring back a souvenir of what the meet had meant to them like trail markers, runner's numbers, balloons and tons of team pictures.

As for the season, the boys fared pretty well considering their pile of injuries. Captains Steve Susten and Todd Erdner inserted a spark of hope in each of the runner's hearts. Freshman, Dave Faul put forth an extraordinary effort and helped the team win when it really needed it.

Throughout the girls' season, Captains Ann Marie Breen and Kim Hedges gave the team courage to make things happen. There were eight rookies among the girl runners but progress was made with each meet so that by the end of the season, they had just missed Regionals by four points.

It's August 1, 1986 and an observer might think some kind of lapathon is taking place on Turpin's track. But no, it's the renowned girls' soccer team coming out of hibernation to run their 2.5 miles in 18 minutes. This annual event kicks off the long and painstaking try outs for girls wanting the prestige of saying they play Turpin Soccer.

From the very beginning Coach Dave Lawson knew the '86 team could compete at the state level and his girls proved him right. They adjusted their own playing to each other's strengths and weaknesses and practiced wholeheartedly, forseeing that on a cold November's day they would win the State Championship.

There was something special about this group of girls from the very start — perhaps the feeling that they were each part of a large family with Coach Lawson as "Dad." In Page Kunst's words, "There are so many different personalities and when we get together were like one."

No one will ever forget the "shootout" with Northmont which ended in a 6-5 Turpin victory. But the climax of the season came with the 2-1 victory over Centerville to clinch the 1986 championship title. Coach Lawson equated it to "Waking up on Christmas morning to lots of presents and then finding out you'd won the Super Lotto!"

Ohio's best didn't get to the top on work and skill alone. It took tremendous "Desire, Dedication and Determination." These words could be found on the backs of the girls' team shirts and they should continue to serve as a lesson to us all.

Being number three at the start of the season didn't affect the Turpin boys' soccer team as they quickly shot to the top of the city poll. The Spartans, led by the "twin towers" Bob Cramer and Brad Campbell, remained at the top of the ratings throughout the season. Senior co-captain Bob Cramer said, "It was a great experience working so hard for four years and having it end like this." The team ended their regular season with a 16-1-1 record and after the tournament the record went to 23-1-1.

Goalkeeper Greg Murphy, who beat the school's record in shut-outs with a total of 12, said, "Everything we did was a team effort and it was really great having the crowd there to support us at every game." The Spartan fans showed up in abundance and the school's enthusiasm roared for the first time in years.

One of the biggest games of the year for all Turpin fans was the Anderson-Turpin rival match and this year it proved to be more exciting than ever. For the first time in Spartan history, Turpin defeated Anderson in a 2-1 victory. This triumph helped pave the way to a state championship with the thrilling 3-2 win over Cleveland's Stow Walsh Jesuit.

Though Turpin will be losing many of its players this year due to graduation, with continuing hard work and perseverance the team should stay on top in years to come.

"We accomplished a lot of positive things this year," said girls' tennis coach Gail Maundrell. "The majority of the team were equal in their abilities, so we ended up being able to send three players to Districts," she continued. That meant the team had made Turpin tennis history! "This season was awesome!" exclaimed Marianne Flannery. "It was a neat experience to get to play at the Jack Nicklaus ATP Center." The three players to go to Districts were: third seeded Abby Bergholtz and co-captains Marianne Flannery and Susan Myers. Susan and Marianne were both seeded fourth in the doubles tournament.

Susan Myers remarked, "The team had a lot more spirit this year. It seemed we each had more confidence in each other and helped each other get psyched up for the matches." The girls came up with a "That's My Girl" award for the team member who contributed the most enthusiasm and momentum each week. Sticking together through pouring rain and even when darkness surrounded them in late fall, the team kept enough excitement going to end the season with a 12-4 record.

What does next year look like? Abby Bergholtz seems to be dominating the singles scene while the doubles team of Jenni Nime and Sandy Lang promises to successfully take on many tough challengers.

All in all, 1986 was an excellent season for girls' tennis and 1987 is looking good.

The volleyball team had an explosive start, then all of a sudden, their spark fizzled out. Everything was looking positive — they had experienced players who had worked well together and they had won their first two games. Then suddenly, victory became a complicated struggle.

The team was plagued with injuries throughout the season. Michelle Moore played as long and as hard as she could with a brace on her knee until it finally gave out and she could play no more. Gwen Elmore sat out the last couple of weeks with an injury to her thumb. Chris Holly and Carolyn Mack also joined the ranks of the casualties. That meant about half of the experienced players were out with no one to take their places. As a team, they kept pulling together and did their best to make the season go, but they had suffered too much damage to recover.

The reserve team was headed by Mr. Estill Taylor. He spent a majority of his time teaching and the girls learning the skills they needed to become an excellent varsity team.

According to the varsity coach Barry Riehle, it was Gwen Elmore who kept the team's spirit alive. He said, "Gwen acted as a role model for the younger players to follow and set an outstanding example of leadership and hard work." Coach Riehle is hopeful that future players coming up will be willing to follow Gwen's example because he believes we have the makings of an excellent volleyball team.

Season highlights for the reserve football team were the win over Glen Este and "King of the Hill" rival, McNicholas. The Spartans finished with a 2-7-1 record with the tie coming against Sycamore. Their league record was 1-3-1.

The reserve team consisted mainly of future varsity stars getting their first taste of high school football. Exceptional players on the offensive team were Brian Dwyer (QB), Tim Borgerding

(RB), Brian Houston (SE), Ted Sinclair (SE), and Jason Ferrara (WB). Defensive players contributing greatly were Tim Borgerding (LB), Kevin Fogel (LB), Denny Heinrich (LB) and Marc Smit (E).

"The victory over Glen Este was terrific!" exclaimed offensive MVP Brian Dwyer. "The team was feeling bad because we had not won a game until then. We beat them with a 20-0 shut-out!"

"The team continued to improve throughout the season," said Coach Poe. "The last game against McNicholas was a very good victory to end with!" Indeed, it was a good victory, with a score of 20-15.

The Freshman team ended with a 4-3 record and was coached by Mike Senter.

Quarterback Kyle Huxtable said, "It was a great feeling to win the King of the Hill because we hadn't won it in three years and it really made the season mean a lot more"

Cheerleading may look like fun and our cheerleaders succeed in making it look easy but closer investigation reveals that cheerleading is just as demanding as any other sport in its hours of training and practice

At summer cheerleading camp, the girls concentrate on ways to improve both their individual and overall squad performance. Just as important, however, is the spirit of sisterhood they develop as the younger girls are pulled into the squad each spring after try-outs. At camp they develop the closeness needed for the coordination and cooperation they display

This past summer, the girls had an embarrassing mishap at camp — they lost the spirit stick awarded each day to the most spirited squad. But more happily, both the reserve and varsity squads came home with first place ratings. This encouraged the varsity squad to work toward national competition at Orlando, Florida. The hours of hard work and practice increased but did not prevent the girls from continuing their supportive activities like decorating lockers, the locker room and toiletpapering the yards of players. The reserve cheerleaders also took their boys out for breakfast this year

Although no awards were won at Orlando, the experience taught the girls what dedication was all about. With true admiration, Michaelle Moore commented, "It was exciting and amazing and the things the other squads did were incredible!"

The girls hastened to point out that without the help of advisers Betty Rogers and Karen Hastings they wouldn't be where they are today

Our girls gymnastics team was the first in the city to qualify for state competition as a whole team this year. Coach Gail Maundrell was extremely proud of her girls, saying, "Going to state was awesome! I had total faith in the team's ability. I don't think they were ever down."

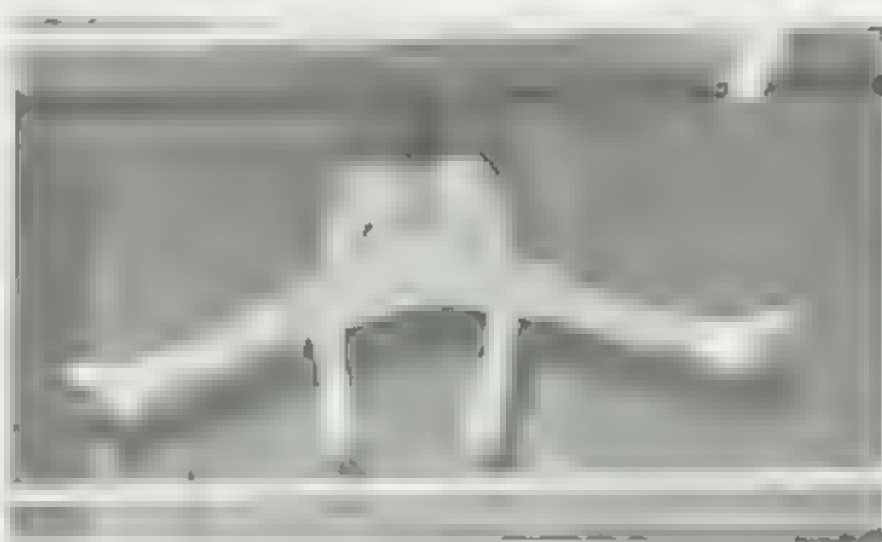

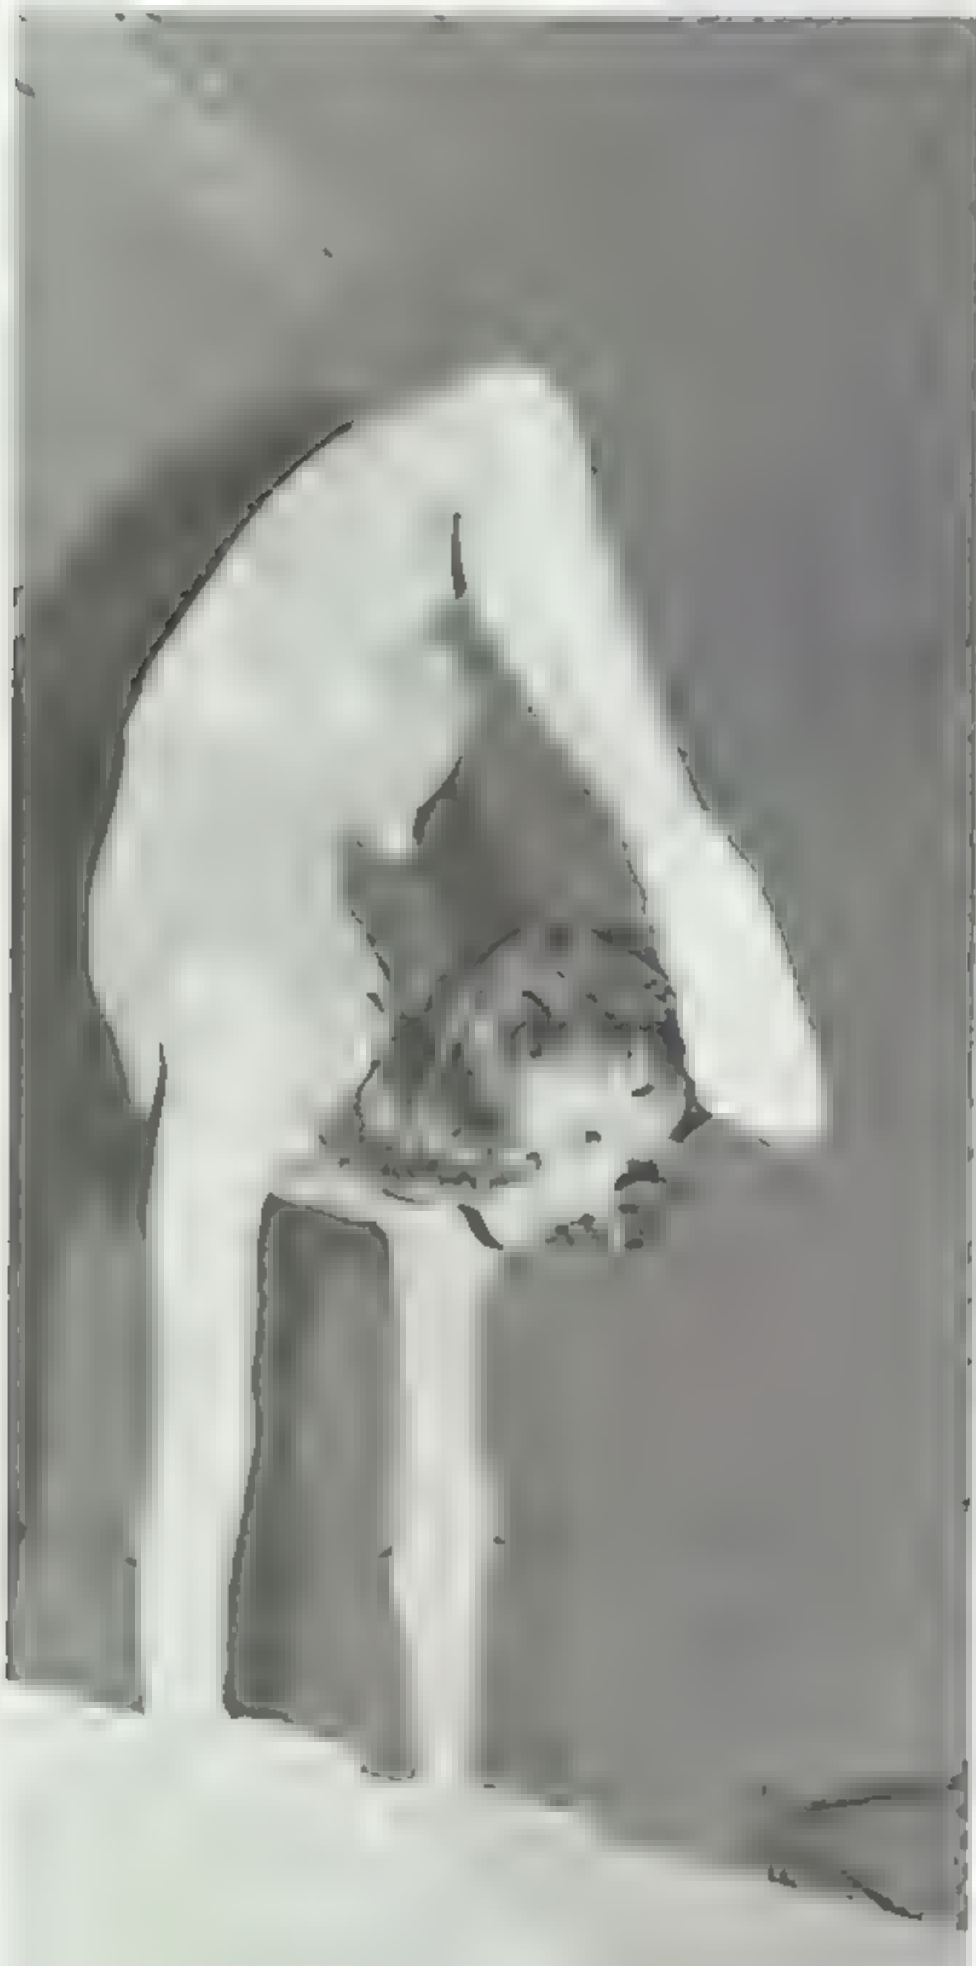

Starting in late October with weight lifting, running, stretching and tumbling, the nine new freshman team members got their first taste of Coach Maundrell's discipline. Two managed to make it to the state meet — Jami

Dunham and Stephanie Dill. Others who went to state were Amy Sauers, who was an alternate in vault because Britt Anderson hurt her ankle, Lynette Gorman, and Jettye Rogers. Britt, who transferred to Turpin after Christmas break from St. Louis was the newest and one of the strongest additions to our team.

Mrs. Maundrell also noted that this year's team seemed to have a more positive attitude and more confidence in their abilities. "There were more girls with more years of experience and a higher skill level," she said.

Spartan wrestlers had their most successful season ever. Captains Andy Camden and George Parsenios said the "King of the Hill" match was their most memorable experience. "It seemed like we had school support for the first time. It was probably the biggest show of students we've had in four years!" said George. Spartan reserve basketball players finished their season with enthusiasm for the future. With four victories out of their final five games, losing only to Withrow, there was a good reason for their optimism. Coach Poe commented, "The season was down in the middle when we lost close games we should have won. But then we came back and beat some teams we should have lost to." The reserve players closed out their season with an 8-12 record. They had struggled back against injuries to key players and had not given up their courage

Leading the team was MVP, John Futrell. He was also high scorer for the team, averaging over 20 points a game. MIP was Brian Lovins and Marc Pera received the Coach's Award "The team was involved in a learning process this year," said Coach Poe, "but they also had a lot of fun!"

The Freshman basketball players showed great future promise when in their second game with Glen Este, they tied the score in final seconds with a heart stopping shot. The game was won in overtime with a final score of 35-30. The team finished their season with a 7-7 record. Coach Vilardo said, "They are a good group of athletes who, when motivated, have the potential to do very well." We look forward to seeing the strength these young players will provide in future seasons

New head coach Mike Senter and his six returning lettermen began their basketball season determined to break the spell of depressing win-loss records that have plagued us for so long. With persistent practice and perseverance, their hopes became reality as the weeks progressed. Their efforts gained them a final record of 15 wins and 8 losses with a league record of 6 wins and 4 losses. This put them in second place in the Eastern Metro League. Senior center, Chris Newton said he was "glad to have a new opportunity with a new coach" this year to be more successful than in previous years.

For senior Forest Heis, one of the greatest highlights of the season was the Turpin-Anderson game in which we shut out Anderson in the first quarter by 30 points.

Bob Fick's most memorable and exciting games, however, were those against McNick and Withrow. Against the Rockets he became the all-time one-time lead scorer for Turpin with a total of 46 points. Against the Tigers, he nearly broke his own record while keeping us even throughout the entire game!

Both the varsity and reserve girls' basketball teams were at great disadvantage this year from a general lack of experience. Varsity coach Joe Spurlock said the team was hindered by having only one senior player and having no summer program for learning the game. Although the season was not a winning one, Spurlock said the girls improved 300% in team unity and in the learning of basketball this year. "The girls never gave up, even though we were down. They stayed in and tried to accomplish what they had learned," said Spurlock.

Team captain, Kristi Sutherland said it was hard playing with all younger teammates and it took both patience and hard work.

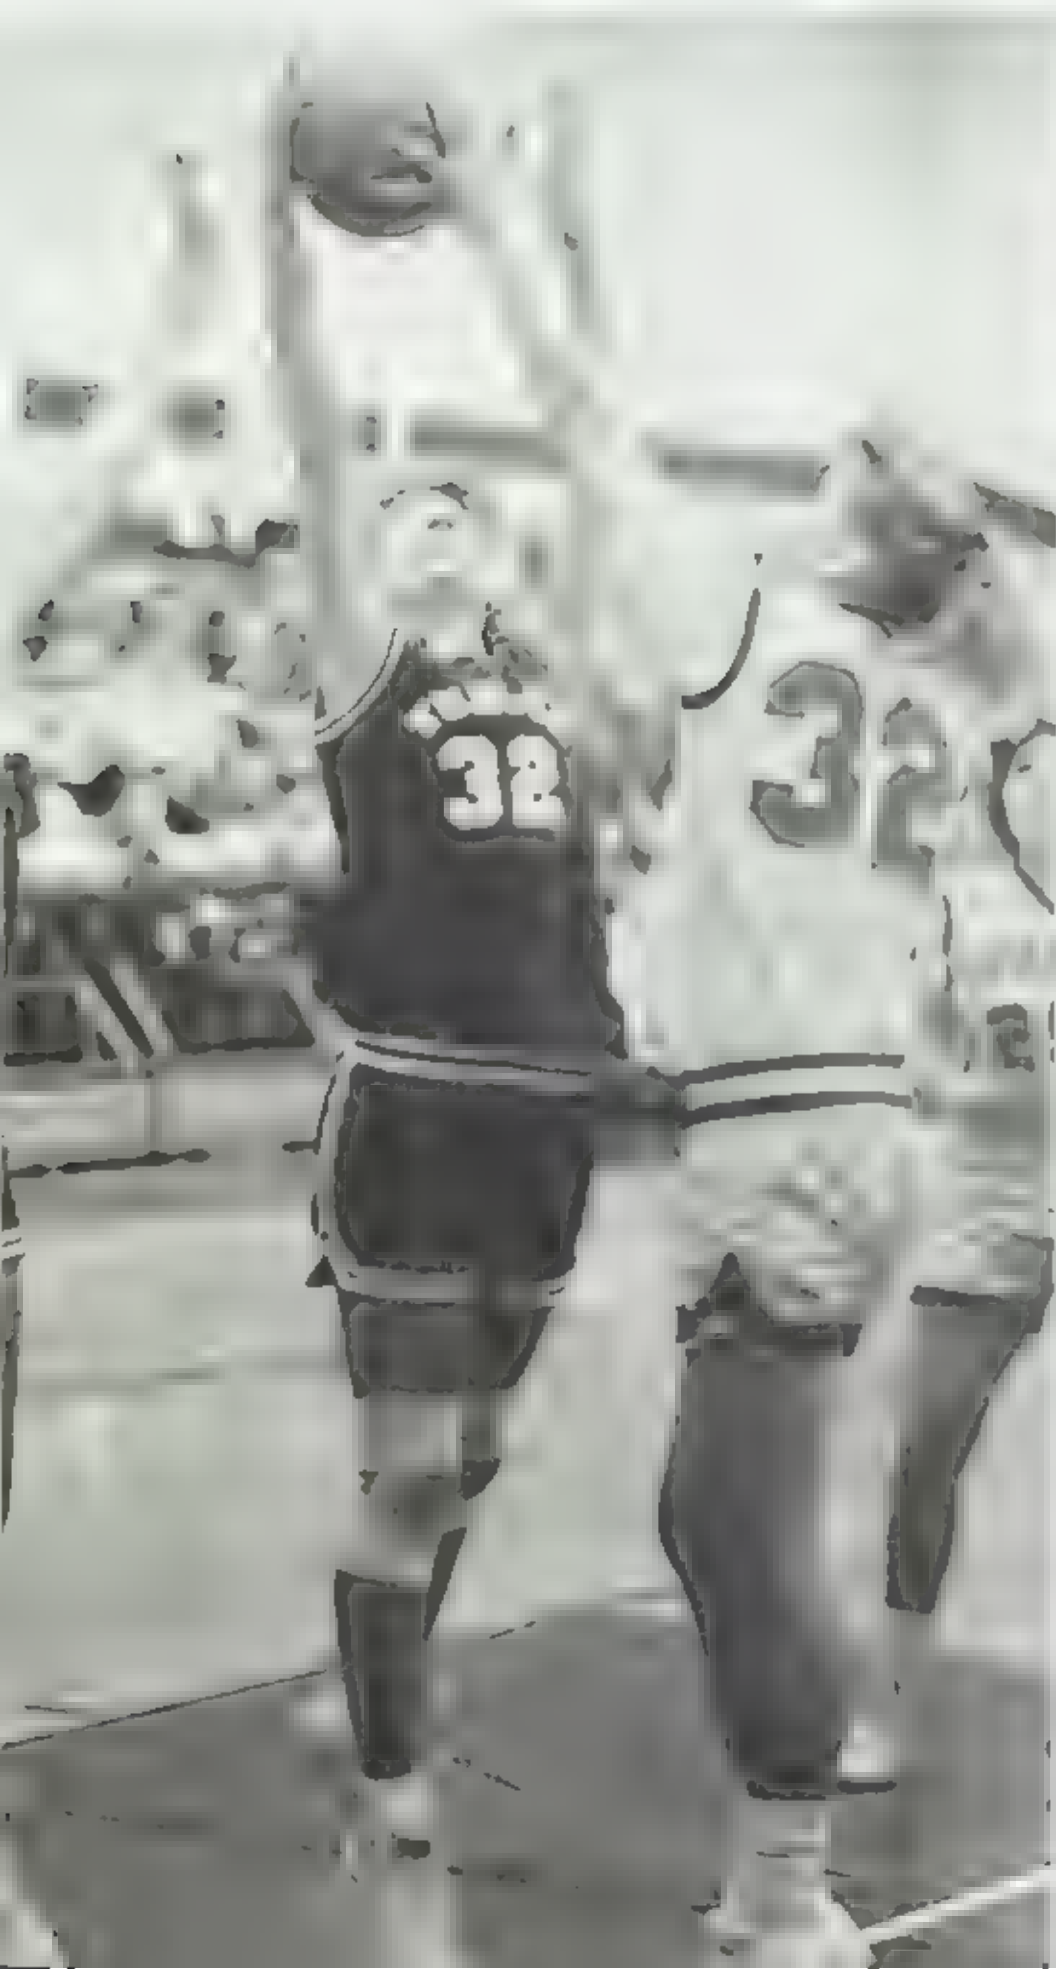

The reserve team also had a disappointing 1-19 record. Reserve leading point scorer Misti Blackman said, "It was frustrating in the beginning of the season not winning any games, but as time went on and the team worked better together, it got easier."

Reserve player Nicki Newman echoed Misti's sentiments. "In the beginning of the season, the team didn't work together, but later on there was more unity." Nicki was given the "Hats Off" award for demonstrating a superior attitude at games and practices.

The boys' and girls' swim teams didn't surprise anyone with their excellent performance and results this season. At the start the boys expressed a lot of optimism about their prospects for this year. Senior Steve Susten commented that he was "very hopeful because many good freshman came out for the team." Despite their initial enthusiasm, however, sickness and injury caused some losses at dual meets

There just weren't enough divers. Nevertheless, the team did send two relays and two individuals to state. The boys had not accomplished this for some time

The girls team, coached by Ed Bauchman had another terrific this year. They ended with a dual meet record of 12-2. The girls took first place in districts, sectionals and many individual meets including the Southwest

Classic and the Princeton and Sycamore Invationals. The girls also sent five swimmers to state including Page Kunst, Kathy Sewick, Barb Heis, Stephanie Devine and Jennifer Carter. The team took 6th place at state. After a good season last year, Turpin varsity baseball players came back in '87 with an even better one. The team's record this year was 24-6, breaking the school record for most wins in a season. The six losses were a disappointment because those came with league games. Our league was a tough one this year because four of the teams were ranked in the top ten in the city and two were ranked in the top four. We did finish third, however, and beat Glen Este twice who was ranked second in the city.

Senior Chris Newton was generally pleased with the team's performance saying "Under the leadership of Mr. Basalyga, the team did very well. I only wish we could have gone farther in the tournament." Turpin lost to Purcell-

Marian in the second round of the tournament after defeating Milford 13-2 in the first round.

Hopes are high for next year with two new additions to the team, Brandy Cowart and Bill Wagner and many more returning lettermen.

Girls' Softball came in second place in both the league and the Harrison Tournament which gave them a rank of 2nd best in the City of Cincinnati this year!

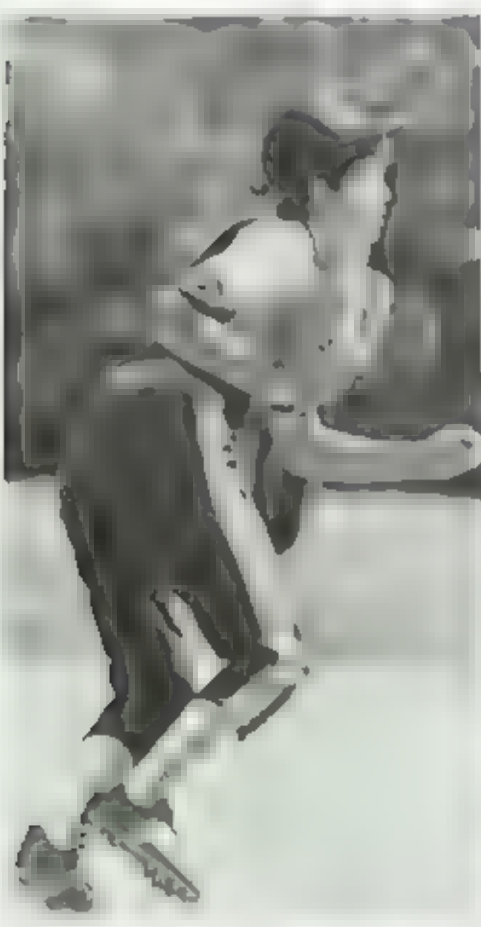

At the start of the season the girls weren't really together as a team yet "We were quiet at first but towards the middle of the season we were all like a big family," said Krista Buchman

Coach Cover was like a father to them "He was always there for us," said Jenny Chircosta

To get psyched up for a game, the team sat down and took a "60 second" break to prepare mentally. Visualizing themselves making successful plays helped. The team began feeling more unified. Of course Coach Cover put a lot of fun into it and always made sure nobody was down. Page Cover gave them the extra spirit they needed before the game with pep talks. The players left on the bench kept up continuous cheering which also added to team spirit

The girls are congratulated on their fine performance this year

Golfers Jeff Cunningham, Brandy Cowart and Matt Buck were all within three strokes of each other to win the MVP award at the end of the golf season this year. Jeff was the ultimate victor.

David Wasmund, the teams' MIP said "We started the season with enthusiasm but our performance declined." The feeling that they could have done better was reflected by the season's final record of 8-3. The team did shoot a 159 against Oak Hills, however, at Western Hills Country club and that was considered the main highlight of the season.

Scholar athletes included Steve Lower for the seniors, Trent Rorabeck for the juniors and Jeff Cunningham for the sophomores.

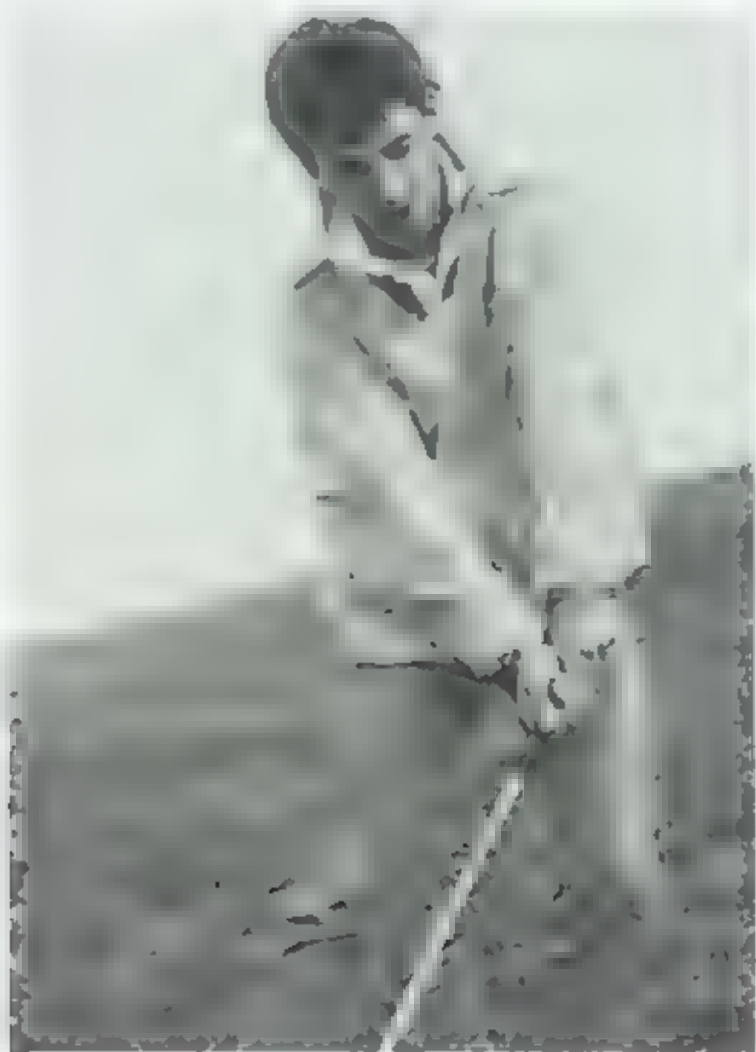

Boys' tennis players felt they could have done better this year with different coaching. Under the leadership of Jai Sha, they finished their season with a 12-6 record and managed to enjoy themselves in spite of their grievances.

Jeff Aluotto was named MVP and other rising players suggest that 1988 will be a better year.

Each year around the end of February, the track teams begin to stir. While snow still lies on the ground and there are only the faintest signs of spring in the air, the training and conditioning of these athletes begins. From the minute they pull their shoes from the bottoms of their closets until the last race, they put in endless hours at becoming the very best they can be.

Both the boys' and girls' teams had incredible seasons in 1987 and demonstrated how hard work and dedication can make dreams come true. The boys made it to regionals for the first time, competing in the two mile relay and 800 open. They were led by new coach, Bruce Eisenhard, who shaped a more winning image for the team. In Gordon Maginnis's words, "We were positive — with better goals, and we felt we could accomplish whatever we wanted." Gordon also added, "Our two mile relay broke the school record and that made me feel our hard work had finally paid off."

Another excellent season for the girls' team can also be reported. They carried themselves to state competition once more on the two mile relay team of Suzy Sauers, Amy Rief, Kim Hedges and Jennifer Llamas. Suzy also competed in the 800 open. These girls made it to Columbus by withstanding hours of grueling workouts with patience and determination and the help of their coaches, Dan Rusche and Dave Lawson.

Fred Bâathe was one of the students who decided to come to America to study for the senior year of high school. When he first discovered he was coming to Cincinnati, he admits he was slightly disappointed. "It is not close to any mountains or oceans." He could not continue his two favorite sports, wind surfing and skiing. He substituted these sports with football and swimming. When he started the season he had not yet seen a football game. Fred claims football was helpful to his adjustment to this country because it enabled him to meet many people before school started. He realized there were many differences between school here and in Sweden. In his country there are less rules. It is more like college in the United States. When he returns home he claims he will miss his friends and host family

Bob Fick started bringing recognition to Turpin basketball when he moved to Cincinnati from Cleveland during his sophomore year. This six foot, seven inch player continually broke previous Turpin records. He started this sport by joining an organized basketball team in the third grade. Bob claims the person who influenced him the most was Cliff Hunt, his old coach from West Geauga High School in Cleveland. Coach Hunt began training Bob at a very early age. This training paid off. Miami University of Oxford, Ohio gave Bob a full four-year basketball scholarship. Bob states, "I am really looking forward to playing college basketball."

Forest Heis was one of the well-rounded graduates of 1987. He was involved with athletics, clubs and organizations, while maintaining academic excellence. Forest has actively participated in football, basketball and track. He claims the most memorable athletic event was the last football game of the 1986 season. This game was against McNick and Turpin won the King of the Hill title. During this game Forest knocked another player unconscious. He also made an eighty-seven yard return on a McNick fumble during the fourth quarter. During the return he claims that, "The only thing running through my head was that I couldn't fall flat on my face." Forest was also involved with many clubs and organizations. He was co-valedictorian and will attend Stanford this fall.

Jenny Molloy was one of the dedicated people who made this a fantastic year for the girls' soccer team at Turpin. This spirited soccer player won two state championships in less than a year. On February 23, 1986, she helped her previous high school in Texas, Plano High School, win their State Championship. On November 17, 1986, Jenny aided Turpin's soccer team in Ohio's State Championships. Sports Illustrated did an article on Jenny because of her effort in these two spectacular accomplishments. A variety of aspects made this a winning season for the soccer teams. Jenny claims the main reason was because, "We all wanted the state title so badly." Jenny will be attending the University of Dayton on a soccer scholarship.

Joe Spryshack is a talented artist in visual and musical forms. He has received many awards for his drawings and paintings. Some of these include Scholastic's Key Award, Scholastic's Honorable Mention on National Level and the PTA's Reflections Award. Joe has contributed a lot through his artwork. He designed the yearbook covers for sixth, seventh and eighth grades. He began this talented career at a very early age with the special help from a school teacher. He then attended several courses at the Cincinnati Art Academy. Besides these artistic talents, Joe finds time to play drums for a band. This band has performed at several parties and a chorus concert. When Joe leaves to attend college at the University of Michigan he plans to continue both of these hobbies.

I would like to give special thanks to Mr. Dick Chiara and Executive Studios whose help aided the staff. Also, Todd Erdner and George Parsenious, who both wrote graduation copy. A special thanks to our yearbook adviser, Mrs. Sue Chaney, who made sure all deadlines were met. Thanks to everyone who made this edition possible.
